Note: A few tricky chords in here that I couldn't find pictures for. B/A is just an A chord and you remove your finger off the 2nd fret of the D string and place it on the 2nd fret of the A string. This gives you a bass note B over the A chord.

The other is what I call Dadd9 which is the same shape as Cadd9 but slide up two frets.

And last of all A+ which is a Dm9 on the 5th fret.
